

Minnesota Business Aviation Association Member

Dear Aviation Professional,

The cost of becoming an aviation professional is increasing. With the high cost of an aviation education, fewer men and women are choosing aviation as a career.

The Minnesota Business Aviation Association in partnership with the Frank P. McCartney Foundation is offering scholarships to students completing a two to four year degree in aviation at a Minnesota College or University. In two years the MBAA has given financial aid and flight training programs to fourteen Minnesota educated Aviation Professionals.

We need your support to insure highly educated and trained aviation professionals are available for our future flight operations.

All supporters of the MBAA / FPM Foundation Scholarship Program will be recognized at each table during the MBAA's 40th Annual Golf Tournament in August 2010.
